The Next Humans

👁 8 ✓ 0 ★ 2

Chapter 1 by Kristine

Humans have destroyed themselves because of too much intelligence. The other beings are still alive, but endangered. The animals are suffering because there are no humans to take care of them. The only noise in this world is the sound of suffering of animals. Then all of a sudden, a small (bigger than a newborn) human like being appeared in a cave. The creature almost looks like human, but bigger, smarter, and orange. When the animals saw it, they started taking care of it, expecting to be the king. The creature smiled to the animals.

When the creature grew up, he started inventing things and other stuff a human would make. Then a few more years later, he met another creature, only with slightly different body parts, and it has no beard. It's the opposite gender. They started inventing a way to communicate, and when they already understood each other, they had fun.
